LIEBIG COMPANY'S EXTRACT OF MEAT

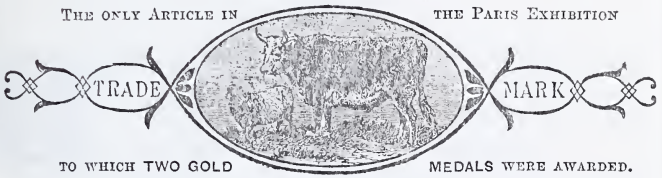
Manufactured by

LIEBIG'S EXTRACT OF MEAT COMPANY, LIMITED,

43, MARK LANE, LONDON.

ANALYSED AND CERTIFIED GENUINE BY BARON LIEBIG.

THE ONLY ARTICLE IN THE PARIS EXHIBITION



TO WHICH TWO GOLD MEDALS WERE AWARDED.

One pound of this Extract contains the soluble parts of 34 lbs. of fine beef, free from fat and gelatine, corresponding with about 45 lbs. of English butcher's meat, inclusive of the usual quantity of fat and bones. It is used not only for medical, but much more extensively for household purposes, and is the cheapest and purest "stock" that can be made. One pound produces about seventy pints of excellent beef-tea.

At sea it is invaluable as food, and besides is an excellent antiscorbutic; the Admiralty have a contract with the Company for the supply of Her Majesty's navy. It has proved of great value in hot climates, where it is almost impossible, on account of the nature of the meat, to obtain good beef-tea, and is largely exported to India, China, and the tropics. It keeps unaltered for years, and in any climate.

According to Baron Liebig, an excellently flavoured soup for seven persons is obtained by boiling ½lb. pounded bones in two quarts of water for about thirty minutes (or longer), with either fresh or preserved vegetables, especially celery, carrots or other roots, potatoes, rice, gruel, sago, tapioca, arrowroot, and by then adding about ¾oz. of Extract, with salt. MOST OTHER SOUPS APPEAR WEAK COMPARED TO THOSE FLAVOURED WITH THIS EXTRACT.

DIRECTIONS WITH EVERY JAR.

Several imitations having appeared in the market, some of them very inferior in quality, it is particularly recommended to ask for this Company's Extract.

Sold by all Italian Warehousemen, Grocers, Chemists, Ship Chandlers, and Provision Dealers.

London Retail Price—1 lb., 11s.; half lb., 6s.; quarter lb., 3s. 2d.; 2 ozs., 1s. 9d.

The Extract keeping good for any length of time, it is more advantageous to buy the 1 lb. size.

PREFACE.

THE British Peerage, increased as it constantly is from the intellect and wealth of the country, stands without an equal in its prestige and importance.

That the public take an ever-increasing interest in all relating to the aristocracy, it needs not the vitality of this, the oldest handbook of its class extant, to prove.

Consisting almost entirely of facts, as this book does, a preface is scarcely necessary; but as Debrett has now been issued for over a century, always accompanied by one, I still continue the custom.

It is asserted of Aristotle, that when asked by what criterion he should judge the merit of a work, replied, "When it says what it ought, and says that as it ought." To the critics I would say, that this, then, is the aim of Debrett; and I believe, when it is taken into account that this work contains over two hundred thousand facts, it will be acknowledged that they could not be more distinctly or clearly set forth.

The changes this year in consequence of the recent elections have necessarily been very great; and if it were not for the invariable courtesy with which my appeals for information are treated, it would be almost impossible to assert, as I do, that I believe that every change rendered necessary has been properly noticed.

I would claim for Debrett (in addition to its correctness) the lateness to which the information contained in its pages is brought down. It will be found that Viscount Strangford's death, although only taking place so late as in January last, is properly noticed in its pages, and in this Peerage will also be found Lord Hatherley's and Viscountess Beaconsfield's Coats of Arms.

I have also corrected the Baronetage and Knightage to the last moment of going to press, and cannot refrain from pointing to the fact, that this is the only handbook of the aristocracy published this year, containing the biography, with his coat of arms, of Sir M. Brady, who was made a Baronet in January last, and the biography of Sir Digby Wyatt, who was gazetted a Knight but a few days since. Both will be found inserted in their proper places in the work.

I have this year again paid great attention to the section of Debrett containing the biographies of the "Younger Sons and Married Daughters of Peers" (the biography of the Eldest Son or Heir presumptive, as heretofore, will be found in the body of the work), as I believe this to be a very important portion of the book, and a feature exclusively Debrett's.

I have largely increased the Historical and Antiquarian notes interspersed throughout the work, believing them to be both interesting and useful.

Debrett has always ranked high as an Heraldic authority,* and I have striven this year to keep up its prestige. I must, however, express my deep obligations to George Harrison, Esq. (Windsor Herald), of the Heralds' College, for the ever ready courtesy with which he has met my enquiries for Heraldic information, and the ready manner in which he has placed his vast store of Heraldic knowledge at my command.

My thanks are also due to Sir E. Conroy, Bart., Lady MacGregor, John Gough Nichols, Esq., F.S.A., H. W. Staughton, Esq., E. Emanuel, Esq., Mrs. Buckley, and many other ladies and gentlemen.

I cannot close this preface without expressing my regret that some active steps have not been taken to prevent, what there is no law at present to prevent, the assumption of the title of a Baronet by any person. As the Scottish Baronetage now stands, almost any one descended from a Scotch family, and claiming some defunct Scotch Baronetcy, will (supposing that no estates are also claimed) probably be successful in his assumption, and be recognized as a Baronet. (The English Baronetage is in a more satisfactory condition.)

* The late Lord Palmerston once spoke of it "as a very Heralds' College of information."

It is a pity this question is not taken up by the Heraldic Officers of the Colleges of England, Scotland, and Ireland, assisted by a body of Noblemen and Gentlemen. They might thoroughly examine the Baronetage as it now stands, and entertain all new claims as they might arise. I for one would pledge myself to insert in this work only those titles which were certified by them as being authentic. They might also clear up many points of dispute; among others—Had George IV. legal power to abrogate the right conferred by James I. on the eldest sons of Baronets, to claim Knighthood during the lifetime of their father?

NOTES ON SEWING MACHINES.

What it is desirable to OBTAIN in the purchase of a Sewing Machine, and what a purchaser should AVOID.

None now dispute the utility of the Sewing Machine in comparison with hand labour, and none question the advantage accruing to the seamstress, the employer, or the consumer. Whether in the workshop or ladies' boudoir, the hand-needle is discarded. The lady who has once had a Sewing Machine never resorts to her needle, and the lady who has not one desires the possession of so great a boon.

It therefore simply becomes a question, not whether madam shall have a Sewing Machine, but, of the numerous makers and candidates for public favour, which shall be selected. And as most makers, through the various mediums of advertising, advise what qualities should be obtained in the purchase of a Sewing Machine, we propose not merely to enumerate these, but also to mention what qualities should be avoided.

Qualities to be OBTAINED in a Sewing Machine.

1. Beauty and excellence of stitch alike upon both sides of the fabric sewed.
2. Lock-stitch made with rotary hook the best.
3. Strength, firmness, and durability of seam, that will not rip or ravel.
4. Attachment and range of application to purposes and material.
5. Compactness, and elegance of model and finish.
6. Simplicity and thoroughness of construction.
7. Speed and ease of operation and management.
8. Not being liable to get out of order, and readily learned.
9. Durability, and running for years with slight repairs.
10. Adaptation to every description of sewing, from the finest gossamer to several thicknesses of cloth.
11. Silence of operation.

Qualities to be AVOIDED in a Sewing Machine.

1. Heavy, noisy, and complicated machinery.
2. A machine with a handsome exterior, but cheaply made running parts.
3. One that makes a single thread chain-stitch, under whatever name the stitch may be called. All machines working with one thread make this stitch.
4. One that makes a stitch liable to ravel, wash out, or wear off in the laundry.
5. One that uses a large quantity of thread or silk to form a seam.
6. One that forms a ridge on the reverse side of the work.
7. Machines recommended as made on the principles of well-known makers, and greatly improved.

As the purchase of a Sewing Machine is, or may be, the act of a lifetime, care should be taken to get what has been approved by time and use.

What is said of the Sewing Machine by those who have used it.

Mr. Fisher, of Castleford, writes:—

"Having had great and varied experience with different kinds of Sewing Machines for the last five or six years, I have great pleasure in bearing testimony to the excellency of the Wheeler and Wilson's over all others for domestic and light manufacturing purposes. The following, in my opinion, are not the least of the advantages it possesses over other machines:—

"1st. The very slight power it takes to work it.

"2nd. All absence of noise and clatter.

"3rd. Its impossibility to miss stitches.

"4th. The great speed it can be worked at with perfect ease.

"5th. The ease in changing the thread, on account of there being no shuttle, nor any wires or springs.

"6th. Its almost impossibility to get out of order, on account of the simplicity and strength of its construction.

"The stitch is the same as that made by the best shuttle machine, and is a perfect lock-stitch. We are now doing very beautiful stitching with silk, on coat edges, &c., with the £10 machine I got from you a short time ago."

Mrs. Scales says:—

"I have one of the Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machines, which has been in constant use for the past fifteen years. It has never been repaired, and to day is in perfect order, and is equal, for all kinds of work, to any machine I have yet seen. It has been used in making heavy clothing, besides doing all manner of family sewing; and I think it gets better every day."

MODE OF ADDRESSING PERSONS OF TITLE.

To ensure correctness in addressing the nobility, or other personages of rank, it is necessary to ascertain if the person to be addressed has any hereditary or official distinction, by which the mode of addressing must be regulated. This information will be found under each person's name in the alphabetical arrangement of this work.

The Queen.—Superscription—To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, or, To Her Most Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria. Address—Madam; or, May it please your Majesty. Conclusion—I remain, with the profoundest veneration, your Majesty's most faithful subject and dutiful servant. When personally addressed—Your Majesty, or Madam.

The Prince of Wales.—Superscription—To His Royal Highness. Address—Sir; or, May it please your Royal Highness. Conclusion—I remain, with the greatest respect, Sir, your Royal Highness's most dutiful and most obedient humble servant. When personally addressed—Your Royal Highness.

The Princess of Wales.—In same manner as the Prince of Wales, Princess being used for Prince, and Madam for Sir.

Princes, or Royal Dukes.—Superscription—To His Royal Highness the Duke of———. Address—Sir. Conclusion—I remain, with the greatest respect, Sir, your Royal Highness's most dutiful and most obedient humble servant. When personally addressed—Your Royal Highness.

Princesses, or Royal Duchesses.—Superscription—To Her Royal Highness the Princess ———. Address—Madam. Conclusion—I remain, with the greatest respect, Madam, your Royal Highness's most obedient and devoted humble servant. When personally addressed—Your Royal Highness.

Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.—"His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant;" if a Duke, "His Grace the Lord Lieutenant." Letters commence according to his hereditary rank.

Archbishops.—Documents are addressed, "To the Most Reverend Father in God, by Divine Providence Lord Archbishop of ———." Letters, "To His Grace the Lord Archbishop of ———," commencing with, "My Lord Archbishop." The Archbishop of Canterbury only, is styled "By Divine Providence," the other Archbishops and the suffragan Bishops are styled "By Divine Permission." The Archbishop of Armagh is usually addressed, "His Grace the Lord Primate of all Ireland." In conversation, an Archbishop is addressed "Your Grace." The wives of Archbishops and Bishops have no title in right of their husbands' official appointments.

Dukes.—Superscription—To His Grace the Duke of———. Address—My Lord Duke, Conclusion—I have the honour to be, my Lord Duke, your Grace's most devoted and obedient servant. When personally addressed—Your Grace.

Duchesses.—Superscription—To Her Grace the Duchess of ———. Address—Madam. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, Madam, your Grace's most obedient and most humble servant. When personally addressed—Your Grace.

Duke's Eldest Son is addressed, by courtesy, by the second title of his father, and in all respects as if his title were that of a Peer.

Duke's Younger Son is addressed by his Christian name, as The Lord John ———; or, on more formal occasions, The Right Honourable Lord John ——— Address—My Lord. When personally addressed—Your Lordship.

Wife of a Duke's Younger Son is addressed by her husband's Christian name, as The Lady John ———, and commences "Madam." When personally addressed—Your Ladyship.

A Duke's Daughter is addressed by her Christian name, as The Right Honourable Lady Mary; or less formally, The Lady Mary. Address—Madam. Conclusion, I have the honour to be, Madam. When personally addressed—Your Ladyship.

Marquess.—Superscription—To the Most Honourable the Marquess of——. Address—My Lord Marquess. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, My Lord Marquess, &c. When personally addressed—Your Lordship.

Marchionesses. — Superscription — To the Most Honourable the Marchioness of——. Address—Madam; or, if from a tradesman, My Lady. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, Madam, your Ladyship's, &e. N.B. Servants, and other persons of inferior station, in addressing ladies of title below the rank of Duchess, should commence their letters with the words, "May it please your Ladyship." When personally addressed—Your Ladyship.

Marquess's Eldest Son.—As Duke's.

Marquess's Younger Sons.—As Duke's.

Marquess's Daughters.—As Duke's.

Earls, Viscounts, and Barons.—Superscriptions—Earl, To the Right Honourable the Earl of —— ; Viseount, to the Right Honourable Lord Viscount ——— ; Baron, to the Right Honourable ———. Address—My Lord. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, my Lord, your Lordship's most obedient and very humble servant. When personally addressed—Your Lordship.

Countesses, Viscountesses, and Baronesses—Excepting the feminine title, the same as their noble husbands. When personally addressed—Your Ladyship.

Earl's Eldest Son.—As if he held by right the title he bears by courtesy.

Earl's Younger Sons.—As Baron's.

Earl's Daughters.—As Duke's daughters.

Viscount's Sons.—As Baron's sons.

Viscount's Daughters.—As Baron's daughters.

Baron's Son.—Superscription—The Honourable ———, &c. Address—Sir.

Baron's Daughter.—Superscription—The Honourable Miss ———; or, the Honourable Mrs. ———. Address—Madam.

Bishops.—Documents are addressed, "The Right Reverend Father in God, William, by Divine Permission, Lord Bishop of ———." Letters—"To the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of ———." Commencing with—"My Lord."

Bishops of the Established Church of Scotland and of America are addressed similarly.

Baronets and Knights.—Superscription—To Sir ———, Bart. Address—Sir. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most humble and obedient servant. [N.B. In addressing a Baronet or Knight, with whom we may happen to be on terms of intimacy, it is usual to write the Christian name, as "Dear Sir James," or, "My Dear Sir James," &c. Unless in official documents, it is not customary to affix the title of Knight, or Knt. after the name. When the party addressed happens to be a Knight of the Order of the Garter, Thistle, St. Patrick, Grand Cross of the Bath, Commander of the Bath, Companion of the Bath, &c. the corresponding initials, K.G. K.T. G.C.B. K.C.B. C.B. &c. (see abbreviations), must follow the name.] When personally addressed—Sir.

Wives of Baronets, &c.—Superscription—To Lady ———. Address—Madam. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, Madam, &c. When personally addressed—Madam.

Maids of Honour.—"The Honourable Miss ———;" commencing with "Madam."

Knight Bachelor.—"Sir John ———," or, "Sir Thomas ———," without the addition of "Knight." Letters commence "Sir."

Knight Bachelor's Wife is addressed by letter, "Lady ———," commencing, "Madam."

Esquires.—Excepting in certain official cases, the title of Esquire is now little more than a title of courtesy, given to every person of presumed respectability, as an additional compliment; or, in addressing persons entitled to higher consideration, it is usual to write "&c. &c. &c." after the name, in the superscription. Some also deem it more respectful to write the word Esquire at full length, than in its generally abbreviated form, Esq. Superscription—To ——— ———, Esq. Address—Sir. Conclusion—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient, very humble servant. If the person addressed be a Member of Parliament, a Doctor of Medicine, &c. the corresponding initials, M.P. M.D. &c. should follow the words, Baronet, Esquire, &c. &c.

Privy Councillors, &c.—Superscription—To the Right Honourable ———. Address—Sir. Conclusion—Sir, I have, &c. The style of the address to be varied according to the rank of the individual. The title of Right Honourable is not possessed by any Commoner, excepting members of the Privy Council, the three Lord Mayors of London, York, and Dublin, and the Lord Provost of Edinburgh, during their continuance in office.

Mr. No clerical dignity confers title or rank upon the wives of the dignitaries, who are addressed as Mrs. unless they possess a title in their own right, or through their husbands, independent of their clerical station.

Petitions, Memorials, &c.—All applications to the Queen in Council, are by Petition, written in the third person, and are generally drawn out in the following form; varying the style at the commencement and end, according to the rank and dignity of the individual or body to whom the petition may be addressed:—

"To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty
"in Council.

"The Humble Petition of L. M. of , in the City of , (Profession, or official employment).

"Humbly showeth,

"That your Petitioner * * *

* * * * *

* * * * *

* * * * *

"Wherefore your Petitioner humbly prays that your Majesty will be graciously pleased to * * * *

"And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

"London, February 3, 186 ."

Petitions to the House of Lords should also be written in the third person, and in a similar style to the above, and commence with, "To the Right Honourable the Lords spiritual and Temporal, in Parliament assembled." Concluding with, "And your Lordships' Petitioners will ever pray."

To the House of Commons the same rule applies, commencing with, "To the Honourable the Commons of Great Britain and Ireland, in Parliament assembled," and concluding with, "And your Petitioners will ever pray."

In private petitions to either House of Parliament, the full name of the Petitioner should be added at bottom; and where the petition is from a number of persons, the whole of the names follow in succession, and the paper or parchment must be one continuous roll and not divided into sheets.

The 1st Baronet, Sir John, was engaged in the service of Charles I., and greatly impaired his fortune by raising and supporting a troop with which he garrisoned his house at Columb-John. At one time, according to Lord Clarendon, this was the only armed force the king possessed in the whole county of Devon. For these services he was created a Baronet, but, in the confusion occasioned by the civil war, the letters patent were destroyed. On the fall of the royal party he was subjected to a fine of £1,800, subsequently increased to £4,000, but eventually reduced, after much application, to the original amount. After the Restoration new letters patent were granted, not however till the year 1677, on account of a long minority in the family. In consideration of this there was inserted in the patent a special clause granting precedency from the date of the creation of 1644.

This family was anciently settled on the Scottish border, but subsequently several branches of it located themselves in the northern counties of England. During the period of difference between the Crowns of England and Scotland, the Armstrongs of the Border, who were at the head of a numerous and warlike clan, occasionally aided by other warlike neighbouring clans, made frequent inroads into the northern counties of England. John Armstrong, the laird of Giltsknock Hall, county of Eskedale, was the most famous leader of these bands. He and many of his retainers were executed by order of King James IV. about the year 1530. Andrew Armstrong, descendant of John Armstrong, and ancestor of the present family, migrated to Ireland at the commencement of the 17th century, and settled in the county of Fermanagh. At the period of the rebellion, 1641, he served in the army of Charles I., and greatly distinguished himself. He married for a third time, when 74 years of age, and died in 1671, at the advanced age of 95, having had issue from his last marriage two sons, from the youngest of whom (Archibald) are descended the Armstrongs of Garry Castle—of Castle Ivor—of Pengelly Lodge, &c. Many members of his family have distinguished themselves in military command.

This family is said to be descended from Grimbald, who came into England with his kinsman William, Earl Warren, at the Norman invasion, and settled at Letheringset, near Holt, Norfolk. His great grandson Robert took the name of Bacon, and from his brother Sir William, of Monks Bradfield, in Suffolk, descended, in the 10th generation, Sir Nicholas Bacon, who filled the office of Lord Keeper of the Great Seal to Queen Elizabeth. He was twice married; and by his second wife, Anne, one of the six daughters of Sir Anthony Cook, of Giddy Hall, Essex, a tutor of King Edward VI., he had two sons, the younger of whom was that great luminary of science Sir Francis Bacon, born 1550-51. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; called to the bar at Gray's Inn; appointed Counsel Extraordinary to the Queen, 1588; Solicitor-General to King James I., 1607; Attorney-General, 1613; a Privy Councillor, 1616; Lord Keeper, March 1616-17; and Lord Chancellor, 1618; created Baron Verulam in the same year, and Viscount St. Albans, 1620-21; but being shortly afterwards accused of corrupt practices, and confessing in a great measure his guilt, he was sentenced in 1621 to be fined £40,000, and to be imprisoned in the Tower during His Majesty's pleasure; forbidden to hold any office, to sit in Parliament, or to come within the verge of the Court: after a short imprisonment the fine was remitted, and in all probability the whole of his sentence was cancelled, as he was again summoned to Parliament in the first year of Charles I. The latter part of his life was devoted to the study of literature and science, and by his well-known "Essays," and other valuable works, he made a brilliant atonement for his former errors. He died in 1626.

This Scottish family is of considerable antiquity, and the principal branch is seated at Auchmedden, Banffshire. James Baird, second son of Baird, of Auchmedden, was a Commissary of the Ecclesiastical Court in the time of Charles I. It is said that a warrant was issued for creating him a peer, by the title of Lord Doveran, but that he died before the patent passed. He had two sons—1. Sir John, a Lord of Session, by the title of Lord Newbyth, whose son, Sir William, was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia 1695, leaving an only son, Sir John, who died without issue, 1746, and who settled his estates on his second cousin, William Baird, immediate ancestor of the present Baronet; 2. Sir Robert, of Saughton Hall, Mid-Lothian, created a Baronet of Nova Scotia 1680, who had, besides other issue, Sir James, his successor, ancestor of the Baronets of Saughton Hall, and William, a merchant in Edinburgh. Sir David Baird, G.C.B., the 1st Baronet, distinguished himself as a military commander. At an early age he entered the profession of arms, and passed through its various gradations, until he attained the rank of Major-Gen. in 1798, being previously Lieut.-Col. 71st Foot; in 1805 he became a Lieut.-Gen., and in 1814 he attained the rank of General. At the capture of Seringapatam he headed the storming party. As Commander-in-Chief he captured the Cape of Good Hope. His services in Egypt procured for him the Order of the Bath, 1804, and the insignia of the Order of the Crescent from the Ottoman Porte. At the bombardment of Copenhagen he was wounded on the shoulder and arm; and in the battle of Corunna he lost an arm, immediately after the fall of Sir John Moore.

This family is descended in a direct paternal line from Louis VIII., king of France. Charles, youngest son of Louis VIII., was called King of Jerusalem and Sicily. His 2nd son, Louis, married Agnes, heiress of Beaumont, in France, and the sons of that marriage took the name of Beaumont, and to their paternal arms, viz., France, ancient, added those of their mother, viz., a lion rampant, or; as now borne. The eldest son of Louis and Agnes enjoyed the French inheritance; Theobold, the 2nd, was Archbishop of Paris; Louis, the 3rd son, came to England, and was Bishop of Durham. Henry, the 4th son, also seated himself in England, and was Earl of Buchan, in Scotland. He died in 1340. His son John Lord Beaumont married Eleanor, 5th daughter of Henry Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, grandson to King Henry III. On the death of William, Viscount Beaumont, the eldest branch of his descendants became extinct. A younger branch settled at Cole Orton, Leicestershire, in the time of Edward IV., of which was Nicholas Beaumont, who died 1585, leaving, besides other issue, two sons; (1) Sir Henry, whose son, Sir Thomas, was created a Baronet in 1619, and afterwards created, 1622, Viscount Beaumont, of Swords, Dublin, which title became extinct on the death of his grandson, Thomas, 3rd Viscount, in 1702; and (2) Sir Thomas, of Stonghton, who was grandfather of Sir Thomas, the 1st Baronet, and from whom is descended the present Baronet.

This family derives its origin from Ogerus de Pugeys, a Norman, who came to England with the Conqueror. He was one of the four Knights of the Lord Mallett, lord of the honour of Eye, in Suffolk, who gave him the manor of Bedingfeld, in consequence of which he assumed the name of Bedingfeld of Bedingfeld. Sir Henry Bedingfeld, Knt, was one of the first to declare for Mary at the death of Edward VI., and after her accession was made a member of the Privy Council, Knight-Marshal of the Army, Captain of the Guards, Governor of the Tower; and had charge of Princess Elizabeth, who, after her accession to the throne, visited him at Oxburgh Hall, his seat in Norfolk. During the civil wars, a Sir Henry Bedingfeld, Knt., a distinguished loyalist, suffered very considerable pecuniary loss in the cause, besides being imprisoned in the Tower. His son, the 17th Knight of this family, having laid before Charles II. an estimate of the amount of the losses sustained by his father (something over £47,000), was told by that monarch "that it was too great a sum for him to recompense;" to compensate for this ungracious refusal, he was afterwards made a Baronet.

Seats,—Sodington, Worcestershire; Mawley Hall, Cleobury Mortimer, Shropshire.

Club,—Arthur's.

This family is descended from William, son of Blound, Earl of Guisnes, one of the companions of William the Conqueror, and is clearly traceable to Sir William Blunt, Knt., who, if not actually a companion of the Conqueror, must have lived in the early Norman reigns. Sir Walter, the 1st Baronet, was a great sufferer for his loyalty during the civil war, and long imprisoned, first at Oxford, and afterwards in the Tower. His brothers and four of his sons were all at one time in the service of the King. The Barons of Mountjoy of Thurston, the Barons of Ixworth in Suffolk (now extinct), and the Lords of Guisnes in France, all derived their descent from this family.

The family of Rouse is a very old one in Sussex, Worcestershire, and other counties, and the head of it is said to have come to England with William the Conqueror. The baronetcy of Rouse is extinct, but the estates devolved on Sir Charles Boughton in 1794, who had himself been created a Baronet three years before, and who had previously assumed the surname of Rouse: he was M.P. for Evesham and Bramber, and was Chief Secretary to the Board of Control 1784-91; on succeeding, in 1794, to the baronetcy of Boughton, he resumed his paternal surname of Boughton. The 7th Baronet of Boughton, Sir Theodosius Edward Allesley, died during his minority; his death caused great excitement at the time. He was poisoned by his brother-in-law, John Donellan, Esq., for which crime Donellan was executed April 2, 1781. The 9th Baronet, Sir Charles William, F.R.G., took the name and arms of Rouse 1768. He spent much of his early life in India. On his return to England, he was elected M.P. for Evesham; appointed Secretary to the Board of Control, and in 1791 was made a Baronet; on succeeding to the family baronetage he resumed his original surname.

Seat,—Stretton-en-le-Field, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Leicestershire.

Club,—Carlton.

The pedigree of this family, collected and certified by Sir William Segar (Garter King at Arms, 1632), derives it from Jordan de Cave, who inherited the lordships of North and South Cave, Yorkshire, upon the death, without issue, of his brother Wyamarus de Cave, 1086. The descendants of Jordan continued seated at Cave for eleven generations, when Sir Alexander Cave died, leaving an only daughter, Maud, who conveyed that lordship in marriage with Sir Alexander Lownde; but the male line of the family was carried on by Peter Cave, next brother of Sir Alexander, who settled at Stanford, Northamptonshire, where his grandson, Thomas Cave, was buried, 1495. Sir Thomas Cave, the 1st Baronet, was 19th in descent from Jordan de Cave; he was, during the civil war, a strenuous supporter of his sovereign's cause. Sir Roger, the 2nd Baronet, was M.P. for Coventry, temp. Charles II. Sir Thomas, the 3rd Baronet, was M.P. for Leicestershire, for all the Parliaments from 9 Anne, till his death, 1721. The 9th Baronet, Sir William, was descended from Roger, eldest son, by his second marriage, of Sir Roger, 2nd Baronet. He assumed the surname of Browne on his marriage to Catherine, da. and co-heir of William Browne, Esq., of Stretton, Derbyshire, a very ancient family of that county. Sir William reassumed the surname of Cave on his accession to the title.

CAVE-BROWNE-CAVE, Dowager Lady,—CATHERINE PENELOPE, da. of William Mills, Esq., of Barlaston Hall, Staffordshire, m. 1821, Sir John Robert Cave-Browne-Cave, 10th Baronet, who died 1855.

Seat,—High Hall, Brompton, Yorkshire.

A Cayley accompanied William the Conqueror into England, and it is said that the family held the rank of Barons in Normandy before the Conquest. It has been supposed that Guillaume de Cailly was William Fitz-Osborn, cousin of the Conqueror, who for some time was Viceroy of England; and if this belief be well founded, the family may claim direct descent from Rollo, the 1st Duke of Normandy. The 1st Baronet, Sir William Cayley, received his baronetcy for his services in the Civil War.

This family is of great antiquity. The founder, Alleyn de Chatterton, of Caen in Normandy, accompanied William the Conqueror to England, and followed the fortunes of that Monarch from 1066: he received many grants of land for his valour and daring at the battle of Hastings, and his name is to be found on the roll of Battle Abbey. A descendant of Alleyne de Chatterton, one Richard de Chatterton, who fought with great distinction at Agincourt, was granted, in addition to large grants of land in France, permission by Henry V. in 1415 to add the motto, "Loyal à mort," to his armorial bearings, which motto and arms are still borne by the family. In the disturbances that afterwards occurred in France the family was compelled to return to England, and enjoyed the favour and patronage of successive Sovereigns till the time of Elizabeth, who granted to Thomas Chatterton the barony of Ardes, in Ireland; and from him, in a direct line, is descended the family of whom Sir James is the head. The 1st Baronet, Sir James Chatterton, was 2nd Serjeant-at-Law and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland.

This Milesian family of Connaught, whose name was formerly written O'Maolconry, is of great antiquity, deriving its descent from Nial the Great, monarch of Ireland, A.D. 400. The Irish chronicles state that, from the eleventh century, the bardic sept enjoyed by hereditary right the privilege of inaugurating the O'Conors as kings of Connaught upon the sacred mount of Carn Frasich in Roscommon. A record of the curious ceremonies performed at the inauguration of a Connacian king is still preserved in the account written by Torna O'Maolconry, chief bard of Connaught, who inaugurated Felim O'Conor as king of Connaught in the year 1310. This honourable office remained for many successive generations in the O'Maolconry sept, many of whose chiefs are commemorated in their country's annals. After the indentures of composition entered into by the Irish chieftains in 1585, many gave up their prefixes "O" and "Mac," as being clannish symbols, and also to Anglicise their names. By these indentures, so fatal to the native Irish proprietary, they covenanted to give up the use of their Brehon law, their Tanistic customs, and to surrender their estates to the Queen, who was to return them to their owners, to be held henceforth by English tenure. In a pedigree of the senior branch of this family, registered in the English Heralds' College, Dublin, according to English fashion, in 1638, by Thorna, son of Moylin O'Maolconry, of Tullon, the said Thorna records the death, burial, and lineage of his father, as 43rd in descent from Nial the Great, in the fifth century; also styling him O'Maolconry, but writing his own name and that of his brothers as Conry. His son, John Conry, was partly ruined in the spoliations subsequent to 1641, and entirely so by the confiscations of Cromwell in 1652, and fled to France, where he attained distinction in the service of Louis XIV., and was slain at the passage of the Rhine in 1672. His eldest son received a re-grant of a small portion of his lands in his ancestral province, after the restoration of Charles II., which was again lost, together with the life of the grantee, upon the defeat of King James II. in 1690, at the Boyne. His brother, Fearfeasa Conry, contrived to retain a fragment of the ancient estate, part of which is still in the family's possession. From this Fearfeasa Conry the present Baronet lineally descends in the fourth generation as his great-great-grandson. The late Baronet was an Officer in the Royal Artillery, a Knight Commander of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, a Knight Commander of the Portugese Orders of "The Tower and Sword," and of "St. Bento d'Avis," and a Grand Cross of the Saxon Order of Ernestein.

This is one of few families, in which the property is traced to have descended from father to son for more than seven hundred years, as in the "Domesday Book" it is stated that Bernard de Croft held the tenement of Croft in Herefordshire, which estate was sold about the year 1760. In almost every generation, since the fourteenth century, there are records of the public services of its representatives. Sir Hugh de Croft, Lord of Croft, was M.P. for Hereford in 1315, and was made a Knight of the Bath by Edward III. The 1st Baronet, Sir Herbert Croft, was son of the Right Rev. Herbert Croft, D.D., Lord Bishop of Hereford, and was M.P. for Herefordshire 1689-95.

* A fact in connection with this gentleman is worth recording. In 1809 he was informed that Wellington was in great need of information respecting the number, appearance, &c., of the French troops, at that time entering into Spain. Sir John, who was then Mr. Croft, undertook a journey to Corunna, through Coimbra and Oporto, and although warned by Marshal Beresford, on his application to him at Coimbra for a passport to Corunna, that he had "cut up the roads, blown up the bridges," and that he would be either shot by the French, or have his throat cut by the Spaniards, and for that reason he should refuse him a passport, persisted in his resolution. He succeeded in establishing a thorough line of communication, and by means of despatches, which he had forwarded to him in cipher, collected much valuable and important information, which Wellington found of immense service. This gentleman was also appointed, in 1811, to travel over the districts laid waste by the war, and distribute a sum of £100,000; he was employed in this service during a period of ten months, and relieved nearly 80,000 persons, and so ably and effectually that the Portuguese Secretary of State declared that there was not "a single complaint." The present Baronet is descended from Edward III., by the marriage, in 1775, of John Croft, Esq., with Catherine, da and co-heir of the Rev. Dr. J. Tunstall, whose wife Elizabeth, da. of John Dodsworth, Esq., of Thornton Wattar, Yorkshire, was lineally descended from Edward Mortimer, Earl of March, and Phillipa, grandda. of Edward III.

John Crosbie, of Great Crosbie, Lancashire, an ancestor of this family, settled in Ireland in Queen Elizabeth's reign. His eldest son, Patriek, received grants of land in Kerry and Queen's County for services to the Crown. The 1st Baronet was his son. Sir Piers Crosbie, M.P. for Queen's County, a Privy Councillor, and a Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to Charles I. He raised a regiment, served at Rochelle and the Isle of Rhée, and in the German wars under Gustavus Adolphus. John Crosbie, Bishop of Ardfert, built the original house of Ballifin (the seat of the Cootes), also the chapel there in which he was buried. The estates of Sir John Crosbie were confiscated under Cromwell; and his grandson Warren, great-great-grandfather of the present Baronet, vainly endeavoured to recover them. Several Knighthoods were created, and two Baronetcies are included in the family honours, while the junior branch was ennobled in the Barony of Brandon, Viscounty Crosbie, and Earldom of Glandore.

His third son, father of the present Baronet, was Captain Augustus James, R.N., an especial friend of Collingwood, whom, with Nelson, he served under. He received a medal from the Humane Society, and a service of plate from his ship's crew, for his successful exertions in rescuing nine persons from a watery grave, which he did at the imminent risk of his own life. He was also instrumental in rescuing with a small boat five men who were near drowning through the "Achilles" barge being sunk. To perform this gallant exploit he had to row right under the muzzles of the enemy's guns, and such was the admiration inspired by his gallant conduct, that the French commanding officer gave orders to his men to cease firing. He died on board H.M. ship "Scylla" 1825.

A Sir Edward Denny was created Baron Denny and Earl of Norwich in the 17th century. The heads of the family represented the county of Kerry in Parliament for successive generations, and in an especial manner enjoyed the favour of Henry VIII., Queen Elizabeth, and James I. This family is still in possession of a pair of gloves, worked in pearls, presented to Sir Anthony Denny by Henry VIII., on that gentleman, who was the only one that dared to undertake the office, informing him of his approaching end. He was appointed by that Monarch one of his Executors, as well as one of the Guardians to Edward VI.

The family of Fraser is of very great antiquity in Scotland, and originally came from Normandy. It is supposed that one of this family came over to Scotland with the embassy from Charlemagne in 807, and was created the 1st Thanee of Man, and was the ancestor of Oliver Fraser, 13th Thane of Man, who built Oliver Castle, in Tweeds Muir, and is to this day first on the roll of Peebles. The loyalty and fidelity of the Frasers to King Robert Bruce, and their martial deeds at the battles of Methven, Roslin, Perth, and Bannockburn, are fully recorded in history, and eventually led to an alliance with King Robert's sister, who was twice married, by which marriages Sir John Campbell, ancestor of the house of Argyll, and Sir Alexander Fraser, ancestor of Lovat, were uterine brothers, and related to the nobility in both kingdoms. In the reign of Alexander III., Sir Simon Fraser received [illegible] the lordship of Loveth, and he and his brother (Sir Francis), his cousin (Sir Richard Fraser), and William Fraser, Archbishop of St. Andrews, and Lord Chancellor of Scotland, were appointed auditors in the competition for the Scottish crown between Bruce and Baliol, in 1291. From the second son of Hugh Fraser, created Baron Lovat by James I. of Scotland, the present Baronet is descended in a direct male line. Sir William Fraser, the 1st Baronet, was in the naval service of the Hon. E.I.C., and commanded the "Lord Mansfield" 1772-3, and the "Earl of Mansfield" 1777-83. Sir James John, the 3rd Baronet, was a Lieut.-Colonel in the Army, served in the Peninsula, and was on the Staff at Waterloo.

The head of this family was Edward Gage, Esq., 3rd son of Sir John Gage, Bart., of Firle, and Lady Penelope Darcy, da. and co-heir of Thomas, Earl Rivers. It is related of this beautiful and wealthy lady that her hand was sought in marriage by three suitors, who had determined to fight as to which should marry her. This fact coming to her knowledge, she positively forbade them to fight, under pain of her great displeasure, laughingly remarking that, "if they would only have patience to wait, she would marry them all in turn." Strange to say, she fulfilled her promise, as she married, 1st, Sir George Trenchard, of Wolverton; 2ndly, Sir John Gage, of Firle; and, 3rdly, Sir William Hervey, of Ickworth—the very gentlemen who had determined to fight for her. The Hengrave estate, still in the possession of this family, was inherited through this lady. Sir Thomas, the 8th Baronet, assumed the additional surname of Rokewood, by sign-manual, 1843, in compliance with the will of his uncle, Gage-Rokewood, Esq., of Coldham Hall, Suffolk.

This very old family is of common ancestry with the Dukes of Leinster, the Marquesses of Lansdowne, the Barons Windsor (extinct), and many others, through Otho, or Other, a powerful English Baron in the time of King Edward the Confessor, whose son, Walter Fitz-Other was, at the time of the General Survey of England, 1078, Castellan of Windsor. The 1st Baronet, Sir Thomas Gerard, was created on the day the Order was instituted, the £1,000 which he was to have given for the dignity was returned, in consideration of his father's (Sir Thomas Gerard, Knt.) great sufferings upon account of Mary, Queen of Scots. Sir William, the 3rd Baronet, expended large sums in the service of Charles I., and being one of the last who held out for that Monarch, had his estates sequestered, and was obliged to repurchase them from Parliament.

Robert, son of Osulphus, of Flemingby, Cumberland, in Richard I.'s time, is styled in a deed De Harington, from a manor in Durham. A John de Harington attended Edward I. to Scotland in 1305, was made a Knight of the Bath by that Monarch at the same time as the Prince of Wales, afterwards Edward II. His grandson was Baron Harington. The 1st Baronet, Sir James Harington, was Sheriff of Rutland in the 35th year of Queen Elizabeth's reign. Sir Edward, the 2nd Baronet, who received the honour of Knighthood during the lifetime of his father, was also Sheriff of the same county in the 19th year of James I. and in the 12th of Charles I. Sir James, the 3rd Baronet, was one of the Judges who tried Charles I. He was, by an act of 13 Car. II., attainted, degraded, and rendered incapable of bearing arms or title of dignity (but it did not forfeit the honours or attaint the blood). A cousin of this Baronet was James Harrington, author of Oceana, and Groom of the Bedchamber to Charles I. He was one of the most faithful servants that unfortunate Monarch ever had, and was once thus eloquently spoken of by Mr. Erskine:—"James Harrington preserved his fidelity to his unhappy prince to the very last, after all his fawning courtiers had left him to his enraged subjects. He stayed with him while a prisoner in the Isle of Wight; came up by stealth to follow the fortunes of his Monarch and master; even hid himself in the boot of the coach when he was conveyed to Windsor; and, ending as he began, fell into his arms and fainted on the scaffold."

This family has been settled in Cork (Ireland) since 1649. Early in the 17th century, this family branched off from the ancestors of the Hoares of Stourhead House (see below). Both families are immediately descended from Jonas Hoare, Esq., of Edmonton, and of the Middle Temple. The 1st Baronet, Sir Joseph Hoare, was a Barrister-at-law, was King's Counsel, and was, for a long period, the Advising Counsel at Dublin Castle. For his eminent services as such he was created a Baronet. For a long series of years he was Member of Parliament, in the Irish House of Commons, for the borough of Askeaton, (co.) Limerick, which borough was the property of his cousin, Edward Taylor, Esq., only son of Berkeley Taylor, Esq., of Askeaton, who m. Miss Sarah Hoare, 2nd da. of Alderman Edward Hoare, of Dunkettle, and Factory Hill, in the county of Cork. Sir Joseph lived in three centuries—a strange and curious coincidence. He was born in December 1699, lived through the entire of the following century, and died 24th December, 1801. At the age of 98, he attended in his place in Parliament to vote against the Union. Sir Edward, the 2nd Baronet, was M.P. for Carlow 1769-76.

The 1st Baronet, Sir Bennet Hoskyns, was M.P. for Herefordshire. He was son of the well-known Lawyer and Statesman Serjeant Hoskyns, whose courage and patriotism in the House of Commons in the reign of James I. brought him for a time to the Tower. His bold attack upon the unconstitutional "favouritism" and encroachments of the crown was the first step of opposition ventured in the House of Commons to the attempted tyranny of the Stuarts. It was remarkable that after his release from the Tower the King, a real lover of wit and learning, regarded him with much favour and respect. Sir John, the 2nd Baronet, was one of the founders of the Royal Society, and succeeded Sir Christopher Wren as its President. Sir Hungerford, the 4th Baronet, was M.P. for Hereford. Sir Hungerford, the 6th Baronet, was High Sheriff for Herefordshire 1786.

Sir Richard King, the 1st Baronet, entered the Royal Navy at the age of eight. On the commencement of hostilities in 1762, he was particularly recommended to the notice of the King, by Lord Anson, as "an officer on whom he could depend to convey the earliest information of that event to the East Indies." He was fortunate in making a very expeditious passage, and thereby causing the success of the expedition against Manilla. After various services and promotions, he was nominated to proceed, as second officer in command, to the East Indies, 1779. On this station he continued during the whole of the war, and was engaged in all the actions with the French squadron. In 1784 he was Knighted. In 1792 he was appointed Governor and Commander-in-Chief in Newfoundland, and, in 1794, Commander-in-Chief at Plymouth, and became Admiral of the White 1799. He was M.P. for Rochester 1794 to 1806. (This latter crest was borne by the family in Scotland, and also for nearly a century after its settlement in Ireland.)

Seat,—Corrard, (co.) Fermanagh, Ireland.

Town Residence,—8, St. Peter's Square, Hammersmith.

This family is descended from a race of great antiquity, who were Lairds of Barra, or Barracht, Aberdeenshire, from a very remote era. Family tradition asserts that the surname was originally Mac Eatore, and that one Robert Mac Eatore saved his Sovereign's life in battle, whereupon the King conferred upon him the present family name and coat-armour. In A.D. 1247, temp. Alexander II., "Robertus dictus Kynge" is party to a charter with the Prior and Convent of St. Andrews, who held lands in the same parish. Sir James King, of Barra, was a celebrated soldier, who had been brought up and had served with the highest reputation under Gustavus Adolphus in the Thirty Years' War, and had been by him raised to the rank of Lieut.-Gen. Subsequently, during the Civil Wars, he was appointed, by King Charles I., Lieut.-Gen. and second in command of the Northern Army, and created, 28 March, 1642, a Peer of Scotland, by the title of Baron Eythen. After the disastrous battle of Marston Moor (1644), his Lordship retired to Sweden, where his past services to that crown were rewarded by Queen Christina with a Swedish peerage, under the title of Lord Sanshult, in the province of Calmar. He died without male issue in 1652, aged 63 (when all his honours became extinct), and was buried in the Riddarholm Church, the usual burial-place of Swedish royalty and nobility, being honoured by a public funeral, Queen Christina attending in person. The immediate ancestor of the family removed from Scotland into Ulster in the reign of Charles I., and acquired estates in Fermanagh, temp. Cromwell. The Right Hon. and Most Rev. William King, D.D., a distinguished statesman and divine, successively Chancellor and Dean (1689) of St. Patrick's, Lord Bishop of Derry (1691), and Lord Archbishop of Dublin (1702-29), was a member of this family. His Grace held, on four occasions, the high office of a Lord Justice of Ireland, and was author of several works, of which the best known are, "The State of the Protestants in Ireland under King James's Government," compiled in 1689-90, during his imprisonment in Dublin Castle (by order of that Government under which, in the words of Lord Macaulay, "though [originally] devotedly attached to it, no Protestant divine suffered more hardships"), and the learned treatise, "De Origine Mali." The 1st Baronet, Sir Abraham Bradley King, was High Sheriff of the city of Dublin 1801-2, and Lord Mayor 1812-13, and again in 1820-1, in which latter year he had the honour of entertaining George IV. He was King's Stationer in Ireland, which office being abolished, he received as compensation a pension of £2,500 per annum for life.

The first who settled in England, and founded the English branch of this ancient family, was Robert de Lorraine, a companion of William I., who, for his services at the invasion, and afterwards against Malcolm, King of Scots, was rewarded with lands in the Durham, viz. East and West Harraton and Ufferton. Here his descendants continued to live for 350 years, or until the reign of Henry V., when Edward Lorraine married (about 1416) Johanna, co-heiress of William del Strother, Lord of Lyham; and, obtaining with her the estates of Kirkharle Tower (and others) in Northumberland, removed out of Durham to live there. Here have his descendants lived for near 450 years. Edward was succeeded by Robert Lorraine, who was so zealous and formidable a prosecutor of border-robbers and moss-troopers, for which purpose he kept always ready a certain number of horses and arms, that a party of these, A.D. 1483, waylaid him between the church and his mansion-house, and barbarously murdered him, cutting his body into pieces, to fulfill their menace of "cutting him into pieces small as flesh for the pot." To him followed in succession, Edward in 1483, Robert in 1485, Robert in 1509, William in 1581, Robert in 1593, and Thomas in 1618, a man of learning and piety, who was so loyal and zealous a friend to Charles I. that a party of Cromwell's soldiers burnt to the ground his seat-house, and others in his ville of Ufferton. He received a new grant of arms A.D. 1639. His only son, Thomas, who succeeded in 1649, was raised to the dignity of a Baronet by King Charles II., 26 September, 1664. To him followed in succession Sir William (son) in 1718, Sir Charles (son) in 1743, Sir William (son) in 1755, Sir Charles (son) in 1809, Sir William (son) in 1838, Sir Charles Vincent (brother) in 1849, Sir Henry Claude (brother) in 1850, Sir William (uncle) in 1851, and Sir John Lambton (brother) in 1851, whose son is the present Baronet.

LOUIS, Creation 1806, of CHELSTON, Devonshire.

Crest,—A griffin's head erased, azure, between two wings elevated, or; in the beak a fleur-de-lis; on the breast a trident erect, or. Supporters,—On the dexter side, a British sailor, habited, proper, his exterior hand supporting a staff, thereon hoisted a flag, argent, charged with a cross, gules, surmounted by a pair of wings, or, and inscribed with the words "St. Domingo" in base, sable; on the sinister, an allegorical figure representing the Nile, head and the upper part of the face concealed by a veil, argent, the mantle, vert, inscribed with hieroglyphics, wreathed about the waist with bullrushes, proper, in the exterior hand, an ancient rudder, or.

Sir Thomas Louis, K.M.T., K.S.F., was made a Baronet for his distinguished services in Admiral Sir John Thomas Duckworth's squadron, off the island of St. Domingo, 1806. He died off the coast of Egypt, on board the ship "Canopus," which circumstance gave occasion to the curious motto of the family; its probable reference being to the star Canopus,—"In the ship 'Canopus,' so as to go to the star Canopus,"—i.e., to heaven. Sir John, the 2nd Baronet, was Admiral of the Blue, Superintendent of Malta and Plymouth Dockyards, and Naval Aide-de-Camp to William IV.

This Baronet is descended from the baronial family of the same name, and stands next to his cousin, Baron Macdonald, in the representation of the very ancient house of Macdonald, Lords of the Isles, a family of Norwegian origin, and long independent of the Scottish Crown. So far back as the time of Richard II., we find that Duncan Macdonald, then Lord of the Isles, entered into a treaty with that Monarch on the independent sting of a Sovereign Prince. The Right Hon. Sir Archibald Macdonald, the 1st Baronet, was appointed Solicitor General 1784, Attorney General 1788, and was Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer 1793-1813. Sir James, M.P., the 2nd Baronet, was sometime Clerk to the Privy Seal, and was appointed, four weeks previous to his decease, Lord High Commissioner of the Ionian Islands.

The royal descent of this ancient Clan can be traced to the remotest antiquity. Gregor Garubh, or the "Stout," fought under King Duncan I. in his battles against the Normans and Danes, and highly resented the murder of that Monarch by Macbeth. He was one of the chief promoters of the restoration of Malcolm, prince of Cumberland, to the throne of his father. In the early part of the seventeenth century there were feuds between the Clans of the Macgregors, the Colquhouns, the Buchanans, and the Grames, and the Macgregors were persecuted with great fury, any one being at liberty to mutilate

* This motto owes its origin thus:—An ancestor of the present Baronet, in the 12th century, named Sir Malcolm, was a man of great strength. Being of the retinue of the King of Scotland (whose great neice he had married), he was at a hunting party with the Monarch, and His Majesty, having attacked a wild boar, or some other beast of prey, was in danger of his life. Sir Malcolm, coming up, requested permission to encounter the animal. The King having replied, "E'en do, and spair nocht," Sir Malcolm tore up an oak sapling, and, throwing himself between His Majesty and the fierce assailant, with the oak in one hand, kept the animal at bay, till, with the other, he was able to despatch it by running it through the heart with his sword. In consequence, the King was pleased to raise him to the peerage by the title of Lord Mac Gregor; and to perpetuate the memory of this brave action, gave him an oak tree eradicate, proper, in the place of the pine or Scotch-fir, which his family had hitherto borne on their shield, and the additional motto above-mentioned."—Ed. Debrett and slay them with impunity. In this situation the Mac Gregors continued till the time of the Solemn League and Covenant, which, as their principal enemies were interested in, afforded them a respite. They were much courted to join the confederacy, upon promises of future friendship; but rebellion against Majesty had ever been detestable to them, and they declared, "That as they bore the crown on the point of their swords, they would not fail to use the latter in support of the former." They are the only instance of a race being forbidden to bear their family name, which was first proscribed by James VI. (of Scotland), owing to the treachery and misrepresentations of their enemies. Patrick Mac Gregor afterwards joined Montrose (with whom he was in particular esteem) in support of the royal cause, with about 1,000 of his Clan. They were restored to their estates, and the law forbidding them to use their own name was repealed, by Charles II., 1661. In the reign of William and Mary this law was again revived, without any cause, but to act as a terror to other Clans. The Act was repealed 1774, but the name was not restored till a royal licence to assume it was obtained by Sir John Murray (properly Mac Gregor), 1822.

The family of Macnaghten is one of the greatest antiquity in the Western Highlands. In 1267, Alexander III. issued a proclamation from Scone, granting to Gillichrist Macnaghten and his heirs the custody of the castle and island of Frechlan, on condition that he should rebuild it, and keep it in a state fit for the reception of the king whenever he should choose to come there. His grandson, Donald Macnaghten, joined his kinsmen, the Macdougals of Lorn, in an insurrection against Bruce, but he was so much struck with the bravery of that Prince at the battle of Dalree, that he henceforth espoused his cause, and continued firm in his allegiance till the end of his life. His son, Duncan, proved himself as faithful to the cause of King David, and was one of the band that accompanied James Douglas in his attempt to deposit the heart of Robert Bruce at Jerusalem. The 1st Baronet, Sir Francis Workman-Macnaghten, was a Judge of the Supreme Court of Madras 1809-15, and of Calcutta 1815-25. He succeeded to the family estate on the death of his elder brother, Edmund Alexander Macnaghten, of Beardiville, who was Chief of the Clan Macnaghten, and had represented the county of Antrim in many Parliaments. He assumed the surname of Workman before that of Macnaghten, with the arms of Workman quarterly with those of Macnaghten, by Royal licence 1809.

William Malet, the founder of this family in England, was the companion of William the Conqueror at Hastings, and connected by marriage with Rolla, 1st Duke of Normandy. He was charged with the burial of King Harold, of whose queen, Aldith, he was uncle. William's son, Robert, inherited 293 lordships. According to Domesday Book, he founded a monastery at Eye, was among the greater nobles of the realm, and was High Steward to King Henry I. His estates were confiscated, and given to Stephen of Blois, on his joining the conspiracy of Robert Courthose. The third in descent from the above Robert was William Lord Malet, who reassumed the name of Malet, as Lord of Curry and Shipton, Somersetshire, and was one of the Barons Consignatories of Magna Charta. The daughters and co-heiresses of this William Lord Malet were married, viz., Halewise to Sir Hugh Poiutz, and Mabel to Sir Hugh de Vivonia, from whom descend the families of West, Earls de la Warre, and the Seymours, Dukes of Somerset. The main branch of the family continued in lineal descent from Gilbert, second son of Robert, and connected themselves with the families of Hull, Cliffe, Wadham, &c., till Sir Baldwin, Solicitor to King Henry VIII., who married Anne, heiress of the Haches of Woolleigh, Devonshire. His great-grandson was Sir Thomas Malet, of Poyntington, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas under King Charles I., and had a patent of baronetage from King Charles II., but died before it had passed the Great Seal. The present Baronet is in the fifth generation from Sir Thomas, and twenty-third in lineal descent from William, the founder of the family. His father, Sir Charles Warre Malet, was created a Baronet for distinguished diplomatic services in India, where he was long resident at the Court of the Sovereign of the Mahratta empire, and was acting Governor of the Presidency of Bombay.

MURCHISON, Creation 1866, of TARADALE, Ross-shire, N.B.

With fearless heart.

SIR RODERICK IMPEY MURCHISON, K.C.B., D.C.L., LL.D., F.R.S., 1st Baronet, son of Kenneth Murchison, Esq., of Taradale, Ross-shire. Born 1792; was educated at Durham Grammar School, and the Military College, Great Marlow; entered the Army in 1807; served in Spain and Portugal as a Captain of the 36th Foot, afterwards on the Staff of his uncle, General Sir Alexander Mackenzie, and as Captain in the 6th Dragoons. This distinguished geologist is widely known as the founder of the Silurian system of rocks, and also as having named and classified the Devonian and Permian systems, the former in conjunction with Professor Sedgwick. Among his numerous publications may be cited, "The Alps, Apennines, and Carpathians," and various memoirs on Scottish Highland Geology, in one of which he first showed the existence in north Britain of the Fundamental or Laurentian Gneiss. His great work, "Russia in Europe, and the Ural Mountains," the result of five years of travel and study, procured for him the Imperial Grand Cross of St. Stanislaus, followed by the higher order of St. Anne. His anticipation that Australia would become an auriferous region, which he broached in 1844, preceded the opening out of any gold mines by seven years; and in 1848 he announced to Her Majesty's Government that, having received specimens of gold from the colony, his views were confirmed by facts. The Government took no notice of his announcement; and three years later—i. e., in 1851—the practical opening of the Australian mines was erroneously announced as the discovery of the metal. Sir Roderick has been during many years President of the Geological Society, and still occupies the chair of the Royal Geographical Society, having presided over that body thirteen years. Was one of the founders, in 1831, of the British Association for the Advancement of Science; is the Senior Trustee of that body, and presided over it in 1846 at Southampton, when H.R.H. the Prince Consort first visited its meetings. In the same year he received the honour of the Copley Medal of the Royal Society, and the honour of knighthood, was made a K.C.B. 1863. His last work, issued 1867, is the fourth edition of "Siluria; or, a History of the Oldest Rocks." Sir Roderick is a member of the greater number of the Scientific Academies in Europe and America; is a Trustee of the British and Hunterian Museums, and an Honorary Member of the Royal Society of Edinburgh and the Royal Irish Academy, and was elected one of the eight foreign members of the French Institute 1868. Has been Director-General of the Geological Survey of the British Isles since 1855; married, 1815, Charlotte, only da. of the late Gen. Hugonin, of Nursted House, Hampshire, Colonel of the 4th Dragoons.

This family came into England with the Conqueror, and settled at Musgrave, in Westmoreland. Sir Richard Musgrave, K.B., the 1st Baronet represented that county in Parliament. Sir Philip, the 2nd Baronet, was M.P. for that county 1640-2, but retired the latter year from the House, and did not return to it until the Restoration. He was a distinguished royalist, Commander-in-Chief at Cumberland and Westmoreland, and Governor of Carlisle. To the Marquess of Newcastle, at York, he sent first 600 soldiers, then 1,800 more, and afterwards to Prince Rupert another 1,000 he had raised in Cumberland and Westmoreland. After the battle of Marston Moor, he retired to Carlisle, and upon the surrender of the garrison (the last that yielded to the Parliament) he attended the King at Cardiff. A new regiment of foot being raised by some loyal gentlemen in Cumberland, he was appointed Colonel of it. Sir Philip was taken prisoner at Rowton Moor in 1645, after which he took Carlisle by surprise, and was appointed Governor for the second time. After the battle of Worcester, Sir Philip attended King Charles II. in France, Holland, and Scotland, from whence he retired to the Isle of Man, which he bravely defended under the Countess of Derby, until it was reduced to the last extremity, and then, that lady having surrendered upon honourable terms, he had leave to retire to any part of England. At the Restoration, in 1660, he was for a third time made Governor of Carlisle. He received for his great services a warrant creating him Baron Musgrave of Hartley Castle, but never took out the patent. Sir Christopher, the 4th Baronet, while young, was very active in the royal cause, and suffered much by imprisonment and otherwise, towards the end of the Commonwealth, being found to be concerned in Sir George Booth's rising. After the Restoration he was Knighted, made Governor of Carlisle, and Lieut.-Gen. of Ordnance, and in the first year of Anne was made one of the four Tellers of the Exchequer. Sir Christopher, the 5th Baronet, Clerk of the Council 1710, represented Carlisle in the last Parliament of Anne, and Westmoreland in 1722.

This is a very ancient Derbyshire family. The Right Rev. William Outram, D.D., buried in Westminster Abbey in the seventeenth Century, and mentioned by Dean Stanley in his work on the Abbey, was of this family. The father of the 1st Baronet, Benjamin Outram, Esq. of Butterley Hall, Derbyshire, was an eminent Civil Engineer. "Tram" Roads were supposed to have been named after him, but this has subsequently been proved to be an error, although there is but little donbt that the great improvements effected by him in such roads did much towards the general use of that name for them. The 1st Baronet was the illustrious general and diplomatist, Sir James Outram, G.C.B., K.S.I., D.C.L., a member of the Council of the Government of India, who made himself famous for his organization of the Bheel Corps, in the Affghan and Scinde wars; as Political Agent or Resident in Guzerat, Scinde, Sattara, Baroda, Aden, and Onden; for the suppression of the Southern Mahratta rebellion; as Commander-in-Chief of the Persian expedition, and the suppression of the Indian mutinies, the relief of Lucknow, &c. He was famous not only for these eminent services, but for his disinterestedness and nobility of disposition, which gained for him the high honours of the State and a resting place in Westminster Abbey.

Sir Hugh Parker, the 1st Baronet was an Alderman of London. The 5th Baronet, Admiral Sir Hyde, commanded in the action at St. Lucia, 1780, and in the memorable action with the Dutch on the Doggerbank 1781. The impression made on the public mind from this hard-fought battle was such as to induce the King, attended by the Prince of Wales, to pay the Admiral a visit at the Nore. In 1782 he was nominated to the chief command of the British Fleet in the East Indies. He sailed from England in the "Cato," and is supposed to have been lost with all hands, as that vessel was never heard of after leaving Rio Janeiro. His second son, Hyde, was a distinguished Admiral, and was Knighted for his services in the American war. He was the father of the present Baronet's father, who was senior Naval Lord of the Admiralty. Other members of this family have also been greatly distinguished both in the Navy and the Army.

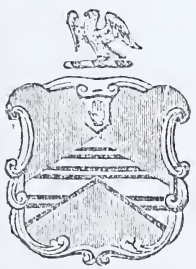
Crests,—1st, a hart's head erased, proper; 2nd, a hand erect, couped, holding a dagger, for Threipland. Supporters,—Dexter, a lion; sinister, an eagle; all proper.

Seats,—Fingask Castle, Perthshire, and Toftingall House, Thurso, N.B.

Club,—New Club (Edinburgh).

This family has always been remarkable for its attachment to the Stuarts. Patrick Threipland was a staunch supporter of Charles I., and during the reign of Cromwell he took an active part in the politics of his country. After the Restoration, he was Knighted by Charles II., and subsequently created a Baronet of Nova Scotia by James II. His son and grandson were loyalists and Jacobites, and the title of the former was attainted. Sir Patrick Murray Threipland, the father of the present Baronet, when George IV. was in Scotland in 1822, petitioned that Monarch for the restoration of the honours of his house, and the attainder was reversed.

THROCKMORTON, Creation 1642, of COUGHTON, Warwickshire.



Virtus sola nobilitas.

Patron of two livings (but being a Roman Catholic cannot present),—Coughton V., Warwickshire; and Weston-Underwood R., Buckinghamshire.

Arms,—Gules: on a chevron, argent, three bars gemelles, sable. Crest,—A falcon rising, proper, armed, with bells, jessant, or.

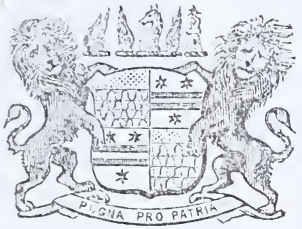
Seats,—Coughton Court, Redditch, Warwickshire; Buckland, Farringdon, Berkshire; Weston-Underwood, Buckinghamshire.

Town Residence,—Albany, W.

Club,—Brooks's.

This Baronet is descended, according to Dugdale, from John de Throckmorton, who was lord of the manor of Throckmorton about sixty years after the Conquest. From him was descended Sir John Throckmorton, Knt., who was Under-Treasurer of England in the reign of Henry VI. The Right Hon. Robert Throckmorton was a Privy Councillor to Henry VII., and at a very advanced period of his life undertook a pilgrimage to the Holy Land, but his strength failed him, and he died while on the journey. The 1st Baronet, Sir Robert Throckmorton, in the civil wars, had his estates sequestered, and his house at Congleton plundered, and made a garrison of by the Parliamentary forces.

DOUGHTY-TICHBORNE, Creation 1620, of Tichborne, Hampshire.*



Fight for your country.

Sir Henry Alfred Joseph Doughty-Tichborne, 12th Baronet. Born 1866; succeeded his father, Sir Alfred Joseph, 1866, at his birth.

Arms,—Quarterly: 1st and 4th, vair, a cantel, or, for Tichborne; 2nd and 3rd, argent, two bars, between three mullets of six points, sable, pierced, or, a canton, azure, for Doughty. Crests,—1st, on a cap of maintenance, a pair of wings, erect, charged with the arms of Tichborne; 2nd, a hind's head, couped, proper, between a pair of wings, gules, for Tichborne; 3rd, a cubit arm, erect, vested, per pale, crenellé, or and argent, thereon a Maltese cross, gules, cuffed, of the first, holding in the hand, proper, a mullet, as in the arms, for Doughty. Supporters,—Two lions guardant, gules.

[Seats,—Tichborne Park, Hampshire; Upton House, Dorsetshire.]

The family of Tichborne, which was of great importance in Hampshire before the Conquest, derives its name from the river Itchen, at the head of which it had estates; hence it was called De Itchenborne, which has since been corrupted into Tichborne. Sir John de Tichborne, Knt., was Sheriff of Southampton in the last year of the reign of queen Elizabeth, and on hearing of the death of Her Majesty, he immediately repaired to Winchester, and there at once proclaimed King James VI. (of Scotland) as King of England. In 1621 that Monarch created him a Baronet; the honour of Knighthood had been previously conferred upon three of his sons, viz., Richard in 1603, Walter in 1604, Benjamin in 1618, while his fourth son, Henry, was Knighted in 1623. Sir Richard, the 2nd Baronet, was sent by Charles I. as Ambassador to the Queen of Bohemia. Sir Henry, the 3rd Baronet, hazarded his life in defence of Charles I. in several enterprises; and his estates were sequestered by the Parliamentarians. On the Restoration, he was made Lieut. of the New Forest, Hampshire, and James II. constituted him Lieut. of Ordnance.

The ancient family of Trelawny takes its name from Trelawne, in Cornwall, which Edwni, the earliest ancestor of the family, possessed in the time of Edward the Confessor. Sir John Trelawny, the 1st Baronet, fought very valiantly in the French wars under Henry V., from whom he obtained a pension of £20 a year, and many other favours. He was M.P. for Cornwall, and also Coroner of that county. The Right Rev. Sir Jonathan Trelawny was a man of great learning; he was consecrated Bishop of Bristol 1685, and was one of the seven Bishops committed to the Tower by James II., which act caused a great rising among the people of Cornwall. After the Revolution, Sir Jonathan was translated to the See of Exeter, and afterwards to that of Winchester, and appointed Prelate of the order of the Garter. Sir William, the 6th Baronet, was a Captain in the Royal Navy, and Governor of Jamaica. Sir W. L. Trelawny, the 8th Baronet, was for five years M.P. for East Cornwall, and afterwards Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the county; he assumed the additional surname of Salusbury in compliance with the will of his cousin, Owen Salusbury Brereton, Esq., 1802.

The 1st Baronet, Sir Thomas Troubridge, was a distinguished Admiral. He was taken prisoner on his return from India, and was on board the "Sans Pareille" in the victory of Lord Howe, June 1, 1794, and was named by his lordship, upon her capture on that day, to command her. He was afterwards appointed to the "Culloden," and commanded that ship in the action with the Spanish fleet 1797. He also greatly distinguished himself at the battle of the Nile. On being made a Baronet, he received an honourable augmentation to his armorial bearings, allusive to his great and brave services. Lord St. Vincent also selected him to be his Captain of the Channel fleet, and he was afterwards appointed a Lord of the Admiralty, the Earl being First Lord thereof. Sir Thomas was lost at sea in the "Blenheim," on his return from the East Indies, about 1807. Sir Edward Thomas, C.B., the 2nd Baronet, was Rear-Admiral of the Red. The 3rd Baronet, Sir Thomas St. Vincent Hope Cochrane, Esq., was a Col. in the Army, Aide-de-Camp to Her Majesty; a Knight of the Legion of Honour and the Medjidie, and served with the 7th Foot in the Crimea, where he greatly distinguished himself, losing his right leg and left foot.

Residence,—The British Consulate, Rotterdam.

The family of Turing came originally to Scotland from France, and settled in the barony of Tourin, in the county of Angus, which they held for several generations. Sir William Turyn attached himself to the fortunes of King David II., and shared that Monarch's exile; subsequently, on his return to Scotland, his loyalty was rewarded by a grant of the barony of Foveran, in Aberdeenshire, which was held by his descendants for more than three hundred years. It ought to be mentioned, that although the title was granted in 1638, the present Baronet is only the 4th, as the title was dormant after the death of Sir William Turing, 1792, for some years.

TURING, Dowager Lady, —ANTOINETTE, da. of the late Sir Alexander Ferrier, K.H., m. 1821, Sir James Turing, 3rd Baronet, who d. 1860.

The manor of Walsham in Suffolk, whence the surname of this ancient family is derived, was originally granted by William I. to Sir Robert de Blount, Lord of Guisnes, in France, from whom it passed in lineal succession to William de Blount, 6th Baron of Ixworth. This Baron fell at the battle of Lewes (1264), unmarried, and it then devolved, with other immense estates, on his brother-in-law, Robert, Baron de Valoines, by whose daughter and co-heir, Cicely, it was subsequently conveyed in marriage to Robert, 1st Lord Ufford, a nobleman of high Norman lineage. Her eldest son, Robert, 2nd Lord Ufford, K.G., was created Earl of Suffolk in 1337. Her second son, Sir Ralph de Ufford, was Justice of Ireland in the reign of Edward III. Her youngest son, Sir Edward, was Lord of Colton, in Norfolk, and styled himself De Walsham, from this manor. From him the present Baronet is lineally descended.

CHURCH, Sir Richard, G.C.H., C.B., son of Matthew Church, Esq., of Cork. B. 1785, entered the army 1800, as Ensign in the 13th Foot, was Lieut. 37th Foot, and Capt. Royal Corsican Rangers (by promotion after the battle of Maida), Major 1st Regt. Duke of York's Greek Light Infantry, and Lieut.-Col. 2nd Regt., both of which he raised. Served in Egypt, Italy, Naples, Sicily, Germany, France, Greece, etc., etc., and was sent as Chief of the Quartermaster-General's department with the expedition which took most of the Ionian Islands. He was sent from England on a mission to the allied armies in Silesia and Vienna, and from thence with the Austrian army under Count Nugent, which drove the French out of Styria, Croatia, Istria, etc., as British Military Resident with that army. After the peace of 1814 he was employed at Vienna, and when war broke out again, on Napoleon's escape from Elba, sent as British Military Resident with the Austrian army under General Bianchi, which drove Murat out of Italy and out of the kingdom of Naples; served with the same army and in the same capacity in France, until the British Military Residents were recalled. On the recovery of the Kingdom of Naples he was named Maréchal de Camp and Commander of the Order of St. Ferdinand by the King of Naples, for services rendered in the recovery of his kingdom from the French and Murat; also C.B. of England. When General Count Nugent was named Commander-in-Chief of the armies of Naples, Col. Church accepted a command as Major-General, and served some years in the kingdom of Naples, particularly in the command of the provinces of Apulcia, where he destroyed the notorious bands of brigands. In 1819 he was named Lieut.-General, and received the Grand Cross of the Order of St. George of the Two Sicilies; named subsequently Commander-in-Chief in Sicily. He was confined by the revolutionists in the Castello dell' Ovo for some months; but finally liberated by the decree of a council of war, which declared his conduct in Palermo during the revolution to have been highly honourable to him. In March, 1822, he was named Commander of the Royal Order of the Guelphs of Hanover. In the glorious struggle of Greece to throw off the yoke of the Turks he was named Generalissimo of the Greek armies, shared the vicissitudes of the war together with the Greeks for some years, and contributed to the emancipation of the Greeks of the actual kingdom of Greece, and to the recovery from the Turks of several of the best provinces of liberated Greece. Is now General and senior Grand Cross of the Order of the Saviour of Greece, and was created G.C.H. 1837. Lieut.-Col. in the army 1812, held a command in the Greek Light Infantry. Served in Egypt and Sicily, was at the taking of Alexandria, at the battle of Maida, and severely wounded at the defence of Capri and Stellama. GURNEY, Sir Goldsworthy, son of the late John Gurney, Esq., of Trevorgus, Cornwall, by Arabella, da. of the Rev. Elias Carter, Rector of St. Ervan, and grandson of the late Rev. Gregory Gurney, Rector of Tregony and Cubert, in the same county. B. 1793. Educated for the medical profession at London, and delivered a course of lectures on chemical science at the Surrey Institution, in 1822 (published by Whittaker in 1823), from which it will be seen he invented the Lime Light and the Magnetic Light, and also discovered that the electric cross currents produced the startings of the magnetic needle, which forms the basis of the Electric Telegraph; invented the Bude Light, the Oil Gas Light, for flashing signals, ship lighting, etc.; the High-pressure Steam-jet, Tubular Boiler, and other improvements in steam. He constructed a steam carriage, which he ran from London to Bath, on the 28th of July, 1829, at the rate of 14 miles an hour, on the common road. On the 8th of October following, the high-pressure steam-jet was first applied to railway locomotives, by which means their rate was suddenly increased from 12 miles an hour to over 30; hence arose the success of railways; also, by the same means, the increased rate of steam navigation; suggested the high-pressure steam-jet for the Ventilation of Coal Mines before a Committee of the House of Commons in 1835, which has been in use at Seaton Delaval since 1848. Extinguished the fire of a burning coal mine at Astley, Lancashire, and exhausted and consumed the poisonous gas from the Great Friar Street sewer, London, by means of the high-pressure steam-jet in 1849; afterwards, by the same means, extinguished the fire of a coal mine in Clackmannan, which had been burning more than 30 years. Introduced a new mode of lighting into the old House of Commons in 1839, and arranged the system of lighting and ventilating in the new Houses of Parliament in 1852, and held an appointment to extend and superintend the same 1854-63, when he became disabled by a severe paralytic seizure. PRIZE MEDAL, 1862.

Earl Russell has graciously favoured J. T. Davenport with the following:—

"Extract of a despatch from Mr. Webb, H.B.M.'s Consul at Manilla, dated Sept 17, 1864:—

'The remedy most efficacious in its effects (in Epidemic Cholera) has been found to be CHLORODYNE, and with a small quantity given to me by Dr. Burke I have saved several lives.'"

CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE (late Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of

CHLORODYNE,

And which is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for COUGHS, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases known as DIPHTHERIA, FEVER, CROUP, AGUE.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in DIARRHŒA, and is the only specific in CHOLERA and DYSENTERY.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of EPILEPSY, HYSTERIA, PALPITATION, and SPASMS.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, CANCER, TOOTHACHE, MENINGITIS, &c.

CAUTION.—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION.—VICE-CHANCELLOR SIR W. PAGE WOOD stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was, undoubtedly, the inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the Defendant was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See Times, July 13, 1864.

Eminent Hospital Physicians of London stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely; and mean no other Dr. BROWNE'S. —See Times, July 13, 1864.

Sold in Bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. The extraordinary medical reports on the efficacy of Chlorodyne, renders it of vital importance that the public should obtain the genuine, which is now sold under the protection of Government authorising a stamp bearing the words, "Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE," without which none is genuine.

PATENT CANDLE COMPANY, LIMITED.

GOLD MEDALS AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION OF 1867, & HAVRE EXHIBITION 1868

FOR

CANDLES, GLYCERINE & SOAP,

They manufacture various kinds of transparent candles, beautifully clear and hard, among which they can especially recommend their which burn brilliantly yet slowly, without the varying light and tendency to bend and to smoke, often complained of in even high-priced Paraffins. They continue to pay great attention to the manufacture of their well-known COMPOSITES, NEW PATENT NIGHT LIGHTS, and CHILDS' LIGHTS.

They have brought out a new Toilet Soap, which they call

SOLIDIFIED GLYCERINE,

Containing half its weight of pure distilled Glycerine. All who have tried it speak highly in its favour. It will be found most useful in preventing chapped hands or irritated skins.

The above—with pure Glycerine in Bottles, Chamber Candles, Carriage lights, Oils, &c.—can be obtained from every Retail Dealer in the Kingdom.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES.

Statistics show that 50,000 persons annually fall victims to Pulmonary Disorders, including Consumption, Diseases of the Chest, and the Respiratory Organs. Prevention is at all times better than cure; be therefore prepared during the Wet and Wintry Seasons with a supply of KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES, which possess a virtue of averting, as well as of curing, a Cough or Cold. They are good alike for the young or the aged. They soothe Bronchial irritation; and for improving the voice, the Preacher, Statesman, Singer, and Actor have long patronized them.

IMPORTANT TESTIMONIAL FROM A CLERGYMAN IN ESSEX.

August 25th, 1866.

DEAR SIR,—I have derived so much benefit from using your Cough Lozenges, that I write to make you acquainted with the circumstance, and with the view of benefiting some who may be inconvenienced by a Winter Cough. For many years I have been more or less troubled with a Cough, but during last Winter it became so bad that I could scarcely read aloud. Having taken other remedies, some of them very nauseous, among them "Cough no More," without obtaining relief, I tried your Lozenges, which are very palatable, and was agreeably surprised at the result of the trial. You are at liberty to make use of this communication.

I remain, faithfully yours, E. L. D.

Prepared and Sold in Boxes, 1s. 1½*d., and Tins* 2s. 9*d.,* 4s. 6*d., and* 10s. 6*d. each, by THOMAS KEATING, Chemist, &c., 79, St. Paul's Churchyard.*

Retailed by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Vendors in the World.

N.B.—To prevent Spurious Imitations, please to observe the words "KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES" are engraved on the Government Stamp of Each Box, without which none are genuine.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS

OF THE

GRESHAM

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

To the Meeting held on November 26th, 1868.

HEAD OFFICE: 37, OLD JEWRY, E.C.

The Directors have again the pleasure to report the satisfactory progress of the Society.

In the Annual Report for the year ending on the 31st July, 1867, it was stated that the current and future financial years would terminate on the 30th June; consequently, the Board have on the present occasion to make their Report for eleven months only.

During the period commencing on the 1st August, 1867, and ending on the 30th June, 1868, 4,612 Proposals were submitted for the assurance of £1,660,652; of these the Directors accepted 3,693, and issued Policies for the amount of £1,438,148.

The New Premiums, received during the eleven months, amounted to £41,422 15s. 3d.

The sums received from New Premiums and Renewal Premiums during the eleven months now reported on were £253,228 13s. 6d., and from Interest on Investments, £34,440 17s. The Income of the Society from these two sources alone, with the addition of the receipts for the month of July, thus completing the receipts for twelve months, was at the rate of more than £320,000 per annum.

During the same period, the sum of £99,763 8s. 8d. was paid for endowment and assurance claims, and £12,455 3s. 10d. for Bonus; after satisfaction of which, and of all other charges, a surplus of upwards of £95,000 was added to the invested funds.

The Directors retiring on this occasion are WILLIAM TABOR, GEORGE LOWE, F.R.S., and JOSEPH WILLIAMS, Esquires, who, being eligible, are recommended by the Board for re-election.

The Auditors, G. H. LADBURY, WM. WEBB VENN, and WILLIAM WHITELOCK, Esquires, retire, and again offer themselves for election.

The Directors trust that the arrangements they have made for the continued development of the resources of the Society will justify their expectations of increasing prosperity.

By order of the Board,

F. ALLAN CURTIS,

Actuary and Secretary.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The Principles on which this Company was founded, and on which it continues to act, combine the system of Mutual Assurance with the safety of a large Protecting Capital and Accumulated Funds, and thus afford all the facilities and advantages which can prudently be offered by any Life Assurance Office. Under these principles the business of the Company continues rapidly to increase.

Ninety per Cent. of the Whole Profits is divided among the Assured on the Participating Scale.

The Profits are divided every Five Years. Next Division 31st December, 1870.

Policies Indisputable after Five Years.

Annuities of all kinds are granted, and the Rates fixed on the most favourable terms.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Property of every description, at Home and Abroad, Insured at the most moderate rates.

The Nett Premiums for 1867 amounted to £333,984.

The Increase on the amount of Fire Insurance Duty paid by this Company during the year 1866 as compared with 1865 was larger than any other Company in the United Kingdom.

By the peculiarly equitable manner of dividing the profits, the Policies issued by this Association become payable during the lifetime of the person assured, without extra premium. After having been in force a period of five years, all policies are absolutely indefeasible and indisputable.

The rapid progress of the Company's business will be readily seen from the following

EXTRACTS FROM THE LAST BONUS REPORT.

In the five years ending December 31st, 1867, there were:—

17,371 Proposals received for assuring £4,634,800, and 13,553 Policies issued assuring £3,616,968.
The Annual Premiums amounted to £115,352 11s. 6d.
The General Income amounted to £231,545 1s. 11d.
The Funds in hand, £571,817 17s. 9d.

The Bonus declared to the Policyholders was equivalent to a Reversionary Bonus of over £1 per cent. per annum.

Capital Stock, £200,000. Annual Income exceeds £230,000, and is increasing by £25,000 per annum.

The Directors draw the attention of Solicitors, Bankers, and others to the NEW FORM of indisputable whole-world POLICY, issued by this Association, a copy of which will be furnished on application.

Qualified medical attendants who are named by proposers to this Association are consulted as the medical advisers of the Directors, by whom all medical fees are discharged.

Every description of Life Assurance transacted; terms for which, with detailed prospectuses and every information, may be had on application to

THE BRITANNIA FIRE ASSOCIATION was founded with the view of cultivating Fire Insurance business of a select character, inclusive of the insurance of Dwelling-houses and Shops, and of the Furniture and Goods therein; and it offers every possible advantage to those about to effect Insurances.

The large Subscribed Capital affords undoubted security for the due fulfilment of any engagement.

The Rates of Premium will be found as low as is consistent with safety, or as those of other respectable Institutions.

Notwithstanding the rapid increase of Fire Insurance during the last ten years, it would appear that, of the Insurable Property in the United Kingdom, the value of which is estimated at about £1,000,000,000, about one third only is protected by insurance.

The recent reduction in the Government Duty from 3s. to 1s. 6d. per cent. has already given a great impetus to Fire Insurance, and there is but little doubt that the provident classes throughout the country will now almost universally adopt the wise precaution of protecting their property against loss by fire.

FANCY FURNITURE—CLASS 14.

"Messrs. THONET (35), Austria, have achieved a reputation for their Chairs. From the position of simple workmen, the Brothers THONET have raised themselves to an important position in the trade. They have agencies in London, Paris, and other capitals; and their simple, well-made, and economical Furniture finds admirers and purchasers on all sides. The wood (Beech) of which the Chairs are composed is cut into long pieces, and bent, by steaming, into the forms here offered to the visitor. The method of construction is simple enough. The ordinary chair has one piece for the back and back legs, one for the seat, one for a circular uniting bar, and two more for front legs. The various pieces are screwed together with pins and nuts, and as these can be tightened up at any time, they are very serviceable. The caning is well made, and the cost of the whole—in London especially—very moderate. Much more elaborate twisting of their wood-work is exhibited in their Stall, but the principle of construction remains the same."

"Austria occupies a large section of the building, and has contributed the contents of a roomy Court to Class 14. The most renowned, and one of the most popular Exhibitors in the whole circuit, is THONET (35). He exhibits only his Chairs of wood, bent by steam. They are in more complicated knots, but otherwise are not different from their form and character in 1862. The price, too, is not less than it was, nor do the greater elaborations of the twisted pieces contribute to such an effect. The house, however, has risen to great eminence in making and exporting, and the Austrian exhibitors have given to THONET the place of honour."

DINNEFORD'S FLUID MAGNESIA.

For Thirty years the Medical Profession have approved of this pure solution as the best remedy for

and as a mild aperient for delicate constitutions, especially adapted for Ladies, Children, and Infants. When combined with the

it forms a most agreeable effervescing draught, in which its aperient and cooling qualities are much increased.

In warm seasons and warm climates this simple preparation, when taken REGULARLY, has been found highly beneficial.

SCHOOL PRIZES AND PRESENT BOOKS

Messrs. Dean and Son invite special attention to their Publications of School Prizes and Present Books. They have recently introduced several entirely new series, amongst which they would particularise those at 2s. 6d. each, and those at 3s. 6d. each. Some are designed principally for young ladies, others for boys; others again are adapted to youthful readers of either sex; but most of them are such as will interest adult readers also.

REWARDS AND PRESENTS.

Durndale; or, Woman's Duties and Woman's Worth. A Tale, founded on fact. By FRANCES UPCHER COUSENS, Authoress of "Pleasant Sundays," "Lays of the Boudoir," &c. &c. Very handsomely bound, bevelled boards, gilt edges, pp. 514. Price 5s.

The object of this work is to point out the various temptations to which young ladies are exposed, the innocent foibles which may result in serious faults. In common parlance, such a book is called a religious novel. Mrs. Cousens, in reply to those who decry all books into which religious topics have been introduced, saying, "Give us all religion, or all novel, but no mixture of one with the other," says, "Their censure must not, however, deter me from writing, as I feel that such books are frequently productive of good, while they can never prove baneful to the reader."

The mind of the public is as varied as the fish of the sea, which require a different bait; and according to the tenets of our loving Saviour, to win those souls,

"Cast after cast, by force or guile,
All waters must be tried."

And many who might probably disrelish a strictly religious work, might be lured by the more "attractive metal," and thus led to serious and profitable reflection. "Durndale" is sure to interest young ladies, and it is well calculated to lead them to "refuse the evil, and to choose the good."

PRESENT OR REWARD BOOKS at 3s. 6d. each.

Adventures and Histories of Remarkable Men.

By M. S. COCKAYNE. Elegantly bound in embossed cloth, gilt lettered on side and back. Illustrated with sixteen well-executed full-page Engravings. Price 3s. 6d.

In this book the perilous adventures of some of the most celebrated warriors and patriots mentioned in the annals of fame are narrated in language well suited to the subject. Like its companion book, "Men of Deeds and Daring," it is a prize book which a boy will prize; a present-book adapted to the general reader as well as to the school-boy.

Men of Deeds and Daring: Stories of their Lives.

A Book for Boys. By EDWARD N. MARKS. Elegantly bound in embossed cloth, gilt lettered on side and back. Illustrated with numerous full-page Engravings by Clayton, Sherwin, and other eminent artists. Price 3s. 6d.

Every boy likes to read of daring deeds. This is a book which is sure to be read and to be liked. It is written in a lively style, and is replete with anecdote and interesting information. Although the book is not written in a moralizing strain, the reader is reminded that "success in a hazardous enterprise is not always a proof of the wisdom or justice which prompted it, and that wisdom and justice will not always ensure success. A man may gain notoriety by doing any daring deed, however outrageous. He can obtain lasting fame by daring to do all that in the faithful discharge of his duty he may be required to do."

Ministering Women; or, Heroines of Missionary Enterprise.

A Book for Young Ladies, suitable for Sunday Reading. Edited by the Rev. JOHN CUMMING, D.D., Author of "Voices of the Night," &c. &c. Handsomely bound in embossed cloth, gilt on side and back. Elegant Frontispiece and Illustrated Title, on tinted paper. Full-page Portrait of Dr. Cumming, and other full-page Engravings, on tinted drawing paper. 212 pp. Price 3s. 6d.

Dr. Cumming says that this volume appears to him "likely to encourage and augment the labours of Christian females, to evince to the Church of Christ their value, and the duty of availing herself of their precious services yet more extensively, and to make us more deeply thankful to God that His grace has raised up for us Christian females

The Illustrated Book of Wonders, Events, and Discoveries. Edited by JOHN TIMBS, Author of "Things not Generally Known," &c. &c. Illustrated with upwards of Twelve Page Engravings of the most striking scenes. Cloth gilt, making a handsome thick volume. Price 3s. 6d.

Such a book as this recommends itself. It suits the lovers of the marvellous as well as it suits matter-of-fact people. Such a book would, in the absence of all other proofs, suffice to show that "truth is stranger than fiction," and that "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

Sundays with Mamma; or, the Commandments Explained. With Short Histories from the Bible. By FRANCES UPCHER COUSENS, Authoress of "Pleasant Sundays." Price 3s. 6d. gilt edges, handsomely bound, red and blue cloth. Illustrated with Six Plates, and Title and Frontispiece in Colours, by Leighton.

"This little work, breathing the purest spirit of piety, is just such a book as should be put into the hands of children of all ages to advance their knowledge of the Scriptures, and teach them to have a correct appreciation of our Holy Decalogue.—Times.

Six Steps to Honour; or, Great Truths Illustrated, in Obedience, Truthfulness, Honesty, Kindness, Perseverance, and Piety. By the Rev. H. P. ANDREWS. With Seven Illustrations, and Title in Gold, by Richard Doyle. Price 3s. 6d.

The remarkably interesting manner in which Mr. Andrews allures his youthful readers to take the "steps to honour," cannot fail to gain the approbation of those who recognise the importance of making books for the young as attractive as possible.

Little Plays or Little Actors. For Home Performance. By MISS CORNER. Embellished by ALFRED CROWQUILL, Esq. Series the First:—Whittington and his Cat; Cinderella, or, the Little Glass Slipper; Beauty and the Beast. Cloth gilt, gilt edged, numerous Engravings. 3s. 6d.

"If any one desires to ingratiate himself with the young people, let him take Miss Corner's plays in his hand, and we will answer for the cordiality of his reception.—Morning Post.

Many schools have introduced these plays at the pleasure-gathering of the children, before breaking-up for holidays. It is a book that should have a place in every boarding-school play-room."

Notable Women: Stories of their Lives and Characteristics, a Book for Young Ladies. By ELLEN C. CLAYTON; beautifully Illustrated with full-page Engravings on Tinted Plate Paper, well printed, and elegantly bound in cloth gilt. Price 3s. 6d.
